THE CONDEMNED MAN, WOODS. HIS HOPES OF A COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE. His Statement in Regard to the Shooting of Mr Cheeseman.

As stated in yesterday's STAR, Barney Woods, who is now in jail under sentence of death for the murder of Samuel M. Cheeseman in August last, was informed yesterday that District Attorney Fisher had made an adverse report on the application to the President for a commutation of the sentence in his case. Woods' daughter and his brother-in-law, Mr. Boyle, apprised him of the fact, and he replied, without any ex-hibition of feeling, that it could not be helped. Evidently, the result was not unexpected by him. He, however, seems to have a lingering hope that his life will be spared, and expects the future efforts of his counsel, Mr. Riddle. and the appeals of his wife and children will yet secure a commutation of sentence.

Already several of the jurors have signed a petition to that end, and it is stated that similar petitions are in circulation in other cities. among those who have known the prisoner. This may partly account for his calmness. Yesterday a reporter for THE STAR visited the jail, and found Woods walking up and down the corridor on the first floor, on which his cell opens, reading "Hours of Passion." In reply to the salutation "How do you do, Barney?" he replied, "Thank you, I am much better than could be expected.

Reporter .- Well, Barney, I am glad to see you in such good spirits, and as various state-ments have been published as to your case, have you any objection to giving me your version of the sheeting of Mr. Cheeseman? WOODS' STATEMENT-NUMEROUS DRINKS HAD AFFECTED HIS HEAD.

Wood-No, sir. I had no malice whatever against either of the Cheesemans. I had known one (he that is now here) for over a year, and the other I met but a few days before the occurrence. I saw both of the Cheesemans on that day. They came down with Fay to the ice house, and they went through to see how I had stowed the ice, and they said it was packed right. In the atternoon, while at work cutting the stable in two, one of the Cheesemans, may be men at work and had a chat with me; they were friendly, and in fact all on good terms.

Rep.—Did you see them again?

Rep.—Did you see them again?

Woods.—Well, let me tell you how it all happened. After they left Fay came over again and says: "How are you getting along?" I said: "First rate, I have got the right line." We were cutting the stable in two, as they were goir g to open the street, and I said to him I will fence up the end. Fay says: "Come, let's take a drink;" and we went over to the house and got a drink and a cigar. Fay always drank a small one and I took a big one; one of mine would make five drinks for him. We went back, and in about ten minutes returned again and got another drink. Henry Linkins came in, and we three drank. Linkins and me then drank again. I went back again to work, and Fay said: "I think I'll make a sale to Cheeseman, but you'll be the same." I said: "All right, make as good a sale as you can; I am satisfied, Mr. Fay, anyway, as it is all for the better." After this Fay said: "Come over to the house a minute," and we went over again and took another drink. I began to think that something was the matter with Fay, as I had never known him to treat that way before. We took a drink, and Linkins, who was still there, drank with us, and then insisted on us drinking with him, which we did. Fay went out, and I returned to where the men were at work. I commenced to feel the effects of the liquor-bad about my head. I did not know what was the matter.

Reperter .- Some one testified that you were told that Fay was coming down to oversee the ers, and that you would have to leave your

Wood.-Indeed, sir, I do not recollect it. Pay said: " You can remain if you choose; but if you would like to leave I'll have a job for you. I expect to go in the contract business." I forgot to tell you that I had three drinks with Callan too, and I told him that my head was out of order.

Reporter.—Well, about the shooting. What is your recollection of it? Wood .- I have no recollection of the shooting. There is no reason in God Almighty's world for me to tell what is not so. I recollect loading the gun, which was kept in the office during the day, and on going over to the house I noticed a man from one of the vessels with a gun, and he proposed that we should see who was the best shot. I declined, and on going to the house told my wife of it. Sometime after my wife helped me up stairs. The bed was against the window; there was no sash in it; and Mr. Cheeseman was wrong when he said that I raised the window. I recollect that I sat at the window for relief, for I was in a miserable condition. i don't recollect any more, and did not know of

Mr. Proctor first achieved popularity by his appearance in the leading role of this play, which is lively and interesting, and will, no doubt, draw good houses.

Mersrs. Walker & Co., who are doing a good business at the Theater Comique this week, in consequence of the numerous attractions at that popular place of amusement, have gene-rously offered to contribute the proceeds of the performance to-morrow night for the benefit of the Boston sufferers The house should be filled on that occasion. On account of the expected jam the privilege of ladies to attend Friday night will be suspended on this occasion.

SUIT AGAINST A BUILDING ASSOCIATION DISMISSED.—Yesterday, in the Equity Court, Judge Wylie, the bill in the case of Hagan agt. the Immaculate Conception Building Association was dismissed. In this case the complainant claimed that there were certain moneys due him on settling up, which the defendant denied, and submitted the accounts and the constitution of the association. The case was referred to a of the association. The case was referred to a special auditer—Mr. C. Ingle—and in his report he cites several authorities, sustaining the association, in similar cases.

ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE. The Green Spring Homicide. Trial of Ex-Policeman O'Brien on the tharge of Murdering Samuel Cunningham.

In the Criminal Court, Judge McArthur, yesterday, after our report of the trial of Charles H. O'Brien, for the murder of Samuel Cunningham, on the 15th of August last at Green Spring above Georgetown closed, the testimony for the government was continued as follows: Christian Beck, sworn:-Witness was within two feet of O'Brien when he fired. All O'Brien said was "Yon — of a —."

Worman Traver corroborated Lt. Essex's testimony as to the conversation, and testified that subsequently he was standing near the pavilion when he saw O'Brien come up and fire twice. On cross examination witness said he was talking to Parkhurst at the time O'Brien passed; did not hear P. ask O'B. to take a drink. Henry T. Carson was called, but failing to answer, Mr. Harrington said the government would close.

A. B. Williams, for the defence, said that on the evidence already submitted the government could not insist upon any verdict greater than manslaughter; but the evidence for the defence would show that it was a case of self-defence. That evidence would show that O'Brien was told that Cunningham meant to assault him and was prepared for him. He was advised to avoid him, and in endeavoring to do so he did not take the usual road, but went out behind the bar; and there, while trying to avoid Cunningham, he saw Cunningham talking loudly to an excited crowd, and proclaiming that his (O'Brien's) wife was a — . He approached him; saw Cunningham place his hand as if to draw a weapon. Seeing this, he drew his pistol and fired with fatal result. The defence would contend that the firing was in self-defence; but, at the most it could be nothing more than manslaughter.

WITNESSES FOR DEFENSE. Fentin Fazion testified that he heard O'Brien and Cunningham's wife in conversation on the night of the homicide. They seemed very angry, but witness could not hear what they said. Next time he saw O'Brien Cunningham was talking loudly to him. Cunningham said O'Brien's wife was only a common woman; that Joe and Finey Fletcher had stayed with her at his house. A difficulty then took place, after which Lieut. Essex took away the badge and baton of O'Brien. Afterwards Cunningham told witness that he would have satisfaction, and said he would kill O'Brien before he left the grounds. Witness soon after this met O'Brien and told him of Cunningham's threat. O'Brien then went out with witness, and at the pavilion they weapon. O'Brien then fired. Cross-examined:-Witness boards at Thecker's hotel; is a clerk; makes a living by writing; has not done much work; health has not been good; on the night of the homicide was engaged in carrying out beer, but business was dull, and he talked to various parties on the ground.

James Berlin.—Witness was on the pavilion.

Mrs. Cunningham asked witness to go out and asked Mr. Cunningham to come in, she was afraid he would get into some difficulty, and she wanted him to go home. He found Cunning-ham after the first difficulty with O'Brien, and urged him to go along with his wife. Cunningham said he would have satisfaction. Witness urged him to go home, and Cunningham went in to his wife. Shortly after they came out, and Cunningham said O'Brien's wife was a ---Just then O'Brien came along, and said to Cunningham, "Did you say my wife was a --- ?" Cunningham said "yes," and drew back and put his hand on his side, and O'Brien fired twice, Cunningham fatting at the first fire. There was a short interval between the first and the second Henry Nicholson and Isaac Bransel testified that Mrs. Cunningham's reputation for truth Lemuel L. Clements, Grafton Harger and James Payne testified to the good character of the ac-

Third Day. This merning the trial was resumed and as on cheerful. There was some delay occasioned on account of the witnesses from Georgetown being late in getting out, having "to foot it" on account of the suspension of horse car travel. Mrs. Ameta Essex was called for the defence

Saw O'Brien and Mrs. Cunningham between 4 and 5 o'clock at Green Spring, on the day of the homicide; they appeared friendly. Between 8 and 9 saw Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham sitting on the east end of the pavillion. O'Brien left them and all were apparently on good terms. About an hour and a half afterwards Cunningham came to her husband (Lt. Essex) and said that O'Brien was inculting some ladies. Ten or fifteen minutes after O'Brien came to the house very much excited, almost purple with rage.

Laura L. Volkman: - Witness was present with

Mrs. Essex; saw the three-O'Brien, Cunningham and wife-sitting in the pavilion, and Cunningham and wife left O'Brien sitting there. Did not see O'Brien afterwards on that evening. Cross-examined:-Witness was in the pavilion when the shooting took place; did not see it, but heard the shots; heard no quarreling or loud words; saw Cunningham when he was brought

The defence here closed. REBUTTING EVIDENCE.

The government called Mrs. Richard Brett, who testified to the good character of Mrs. Cunningham for truth. Joseph Ehrmantrout, sworn: - Witness was present at the picnic; did not see Fenton Paxton present. Mrs. Cunningham's character for truth is good.

Wm. Crown, sworn: -Mrs. Cunningham was a truthful woman. Believed that she was a trathful woman because he never caught her in

J-Tanie Custer testified to the good character of Mrs. Cunningham for truth. Fenton Pazton recalled .- Had not been drinking that night.

Henry Warren was recalled, to prove that Paxton was pretty drunk. The defence objected. Mr. Harrington said his object was to show that Paxton was not sober enough to count bot-ties, so that the jury could determine whether he could have observed the circumstances as detailed: The court sustained the objection.

MR. HARRINGTON SAID that he would claim a verdict of murder; that the commencement of the difficulty was with the defendant; that had the shot been fired when the first difficulty occurred, the verdict might be one of manslaughter. It was apparent to him that the prisoner, O'Brien, went deliber-ately to the pavilion for the purpose of shooting Cunningham, and he did so. It there had been a renewal of the quarrel at the pavilion it might be a case of manslaughter, but there had not

MR. FRANCIS MILLER, POR THE DEPENCE, cited the conversation between Mr. O'Brien and Mrs. Cunningham, and contended that the language used by Cunningham against O'Brien's wife was sufficient cause for knocking down any man. There was no evidence that O'Brien struck Cunningham, and after the struggle Lieutenant Essex comes up and takes O'Brien's badge and baton from him, which, after considering the disgrace, naturally threw him into a state of intense excitement. There was one great question to be considered: whether O'Brien had not sufficient cause to believe that his own life was in danger after being informed of the declarations of Cunningham. The deed was an act which, of course, should not have been committed, but an act which any man was justified in committing in protecting the character of his dear and beloved wife. He argued that a verdict of murder was entirely out of the question, and that the act was justifiable. Mr. Riddle then delivered an able argument for the defence, urging the jury to consider the excitement under which the accused was laboring at the time of the shooting, and closed with an eloquent peroration, describing the good character of the prisoner, the situation of his family, and the provocation under which he committed the act which had brought him before this bar as a criminal. He was followed by Mr. Harrington for the prosecution, who was speaking when our report MOUNT VERNON AND THE TOMB OF WASH-Mount Vernon Association took place in New York on Friday last, and gratifying reports were received of the management on the estate, which has lately been put in charge of Colonel Hollingsworth, who holds the office of president, arrangement all the rooms in the mansion have been thrown open to visitors, which could not conviently be done during the occupancy of the regent, whose ill-health has often confined her to her apartment. No Subsidence in the Horse Disease

Almost Every Horse bick-Several Cases of "Dropsy"-No Street Cars Running To day-Oxeu in Demand-The Disease in the Country-Fatal Cases Since Yesterday, Etc. It would be giving a false impression to say that there is a subsidence of the horse epidemic within the limits of the District of Commbia.

The proprietor of a large livery stable assured a STAR reporter to day that his horses, most of which were attacked about fifteen days ago, do not exhibit the least symptom of improvement, and that the worst is to come. The reply of the livery stable keepers to the query "HOW ARE YOUR HORSES TO-DAY?" generally was, "About the same; no better or worse than they were last week." The "horse dropsy" noticed in yesterday's STAR as preva-lent in New York and Baltimore, has appeared in this city in several stables. In fact, the symptoms of that disease might have been noticed in almost every stable for a week past, but every one naturally believed it to be one of the features of the epizootic, and thus allowed New York and Baltimore to exhibit their enterprise by first designating it as "dropsy." This phase of the epidemic as it exhibits itself here is merely the SWELLING OF THE HEAD AND LEGS of the animals, the body, however, remiaining its usual size. In some horses thus affected the swelling has entirely disappeared, and this would indicate that the name, "dropsy," as ap-plied in Baltimore and New York, is an inaccurate designation. There is not a horse in the city attacked first by the disease which has yet fully recovered. Many have passed the critical stage of the disease, and are out of danger, but still cough; and some horsemen believe they will continue to cough, more or less, until next sum-

NO STREET CARS were running to-day on account of the rain, and it is the intention of the different companies not to run cars as long as the weather remains inclement. Many car horses which have been used are considerably worse, doubtless on ac-count of working in the rain a few days ago. The "hespital" of the Washington and Georgetown railroad, near the Baltimore and Onio depot, shelters fourteen or fifteen bad cases of the disease, two of which will doubtless terminate fatally before to-morrow. These two horses have apartments about twelve feet square to themselves, and are allowed to move about unrestricted by halters. They lie down most of the time, breathe heavily, and are evi-

IN GREAT DISTRESS. Their sides had been blistered to relieve their lungs, which were to all appearances in a state of congestion. This company thus far has lost 16 out of about 500 horses.

The horses of Adams' and Knox's express are still sick. Adams & Co. were using some of their horses to-day, but had some oxen also drawing their wagons. The company are just now doing more business in the delivery of goods than they usually do. Knox uses only a sufficient number of horses to transfer the mails and fill pressing orders. BUYING OXEN.

Merchants and others whose business necessitates the delivery of goods continue to buy oxen, on account of the illness of their forses. The prices of oxen range from $100 to 250 per yoke. A number of countrymen are driving a good business daily on the market space, near the corner of the Avenue and 9th street. This afternoon at one o'clock eleven pairs of oxen were on sale there, and buyers were numerous. "Eli, jest take that air yoke down a ways and back, and let the gentleman see how they work," said one of these countrymen to a colored man. "Eli" "gee-ed" and "haw-ed" the animals down towards B street a few rods and back, and on his return said: "Yer can't want a better yoke a oxen than them;

THEY'SE JIST LIKE TWO LAMBS, THEY IS!" "Yes, suh," resumed the farmer; "you can't git anything nicer'n them catil. I brung 'em on the freight from Manassah dis morn', and if you want that fust yoke you kin have 'em far $125; that hind pair's wuth $200, if they're wuth a cent. Yer see, I don't want to make no money yesterday there was a very large crowd of spectators present. The prisoner seemed quite | Yer see, I had to pay right smart o' freight on em, an' then I put up at a tavern down here on 7th street, and they charges a heap for 'commodations there. You may think, suh, that them cattil is thin, but I swear to -THEY HAIN'T HAD A DROP O' WATER sen' last night, and that's what makes 'em look so holler." Many persons buy oxen for temporary use, and as soon as they are done with them fatten them for market, which enables them, in many instances, to sell for a considerable advance on their original cost. IN THE COUNTRY.

Advices from the surrounding country represent the disease as prevailing extensively. The Montgomery court, the November term of which should have opened yesterday, was postponed until the first Monday of December, in consequence of the horse malady, which has spread all over the county. THIRTEEN DEAD HORSES were reported to-day at police headquarters up to two o'clock p. m., as follows: 107 2d street, Georgetown; 19th and 20th and K and L streets northwest; 1229 25th street northwest; corner of 21st and L streets; Congress street, near canal, Georgetown; alley between 16th and 17th and L and M streets; New Hampshire avenue, between L and M streets; G street, between Half street and Delaware avenue southwest; Market stable; 1st, between O and P streets southwest; Earle's stable; H, between 20th and 21st streets; between L and M and 18th street and Connecticut avenue northwest; corner 25th and F streets

NO CONNECTION BETWEEN MICROSCPIC ORGAN-ISMS IN THE AIR AND THE EPIDEMIC HORSE CATARRH.

ARMY MEDICAL MUSEUM. War Department, Surgeon General's Office WASHINGTON, D. C., November 13, 1872. To the Editor of the Star-Dear Sir: I have been asked to say a word with regard to the supposed connection between microscopic organisms in the air and the epidemic catarrh now prevailing among our horses, and have no hesi tation in stating that I am unacquainted with any facts which can be regarded as proof of the correctness of this notion. During the last few years it has been a favorite speculation, in certain quarters, that epidemic diseases are produced by the presence in the atmosphere of vegetable germs, so minute as to be visible only with the microscope. Considerable labor has been bestowed upon microscopical work in this direction, but the results which have been confidently announced from time to time by enthusiasts have been either contradicted er so materially modified by subsequent observations that the question still remains in the domain of mere speculation.

When we consider the number and variety of the organic germs which can be detected in the atmosphere by the microscope at all times, and when we remember that it is precisely those lower forms which have been least studied that are most abundant, we shall not be surprised that pretenders have found here a fit field for charlatanism, or that many well-meaning but incautious persons have fallen into error. Nevertheless, I certainly regard the microscopical forms which exist in the atmosphere, and their possible influence on man, as a proper matter for scientific study; and by way of contributing my mite to this difficult subject, I would state that within the last few days I have collected the organic forms from a quantity of the air of a stable in this city in which were a number of the sick horses, and submitted them to the highest powers of the microscope without finding any which are not usually encountered when no epidemic is prevailing, and have also subjected the mucus discharge from the nostrils of several of the horses to the same examination with like negative results.

Very respectfully, J. J. WOODWARD, Very respectfully, Assistant Surgeon U. S. Army.

A Bad Reginning but a More Satis-factory Ending.

Tuesdey evening, about 6 o'clock, Mr. Wm.
M. Evans, clerk of the Police Court, had occasion to visit the court room on C street, and found standing at the door a colored woman with an anonymous note, rather badly written, addressed "To any Policeman," stating that a young girl was in a house on E street, between 12rb and 13th streets, against her will. Mr. E. conducted the messenger to the detective office on Louisiana avenue, and laid the matter before Detectives McElfresh, Clarvoe and Mc-Devitt, when it was decided that all should go to were received of the management on the estate, which has lately been put in charge of Colonel Hollingsworth, who holds the office of president, secretary, and superintendent. Under this new arrangement all the rooms in the mansion have been thrown open to visitors, which could not been thrown open to visitors, which could not be the flange of the old name she gave, the day before, and had been decorded that all should go to $17,245.40.

On arrival at the office of Major Richards, the mother of the girl was sent for and soon reached the office, when a scene followed. The upshot of the matter was that he expressed himself willing to marry the girl, and Detective McElfresh was dispatched for a license and Detective McDevitt for a priest. McElfresh found Mr. Meigs, the clerk of the court, from whom he obtained the license, and on his return the whole company repaired to the house of Father Kane, who, after fully satisfying himself of the situation, consented to isfying himself of the situation, consented to marry them, and after giving them some good advice the parties separated for the time being, the bride returning to her mother's house and the groom to his work, first saluting the bride and his mother-in-law.

HORSE DROPSY IN WASHINGTON. Fatal Accident on the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad. FOUR MEN INJURED; TWO OF THEM DIE OF THEIR WOUNDS.

Yesterday afternoon a serious and probably fatal accident occurred in the tunnel near the navy yard, through which the Baltimore and Potomac railroad runs, by which two men were fatally injured, one had his leg broken, and another was badly bruised. At 5:20 p. m. a gravel train was passing through the tunnel, and a train of empty cars being then due, bound south, the gravel train was switched off. A coupling of the gravel train, however, had broken unperceived and three of the cars were thus left on the main track, in the path of the approaching train of empty cars. Seated on the forward car of the three were W. H. Jones, Lewis Peyton and Fred. King, colored employes of the road. Before the mishap was noticed and the three cars removed from this dangerous position, the southern train entered the tunnel with the flagman, Nathaniel Thompson, on the pilot of the engine. The tunnel being filled with the smoke and steam from the engine of the gravel train which had just passed through, the gravel cars were not seen, and a collision followed. The cries of the wounded was the first notice that there was anything wrong, and as soon as possible, the uninjured men went to their assistance. Jones was found o have one leg cut off entirely, and the other hanging only by the skin; Thompson's right leg was completely severed from the body; Peyton had both legs broken, while King was severely bruised. Dr. McKim was immediately summoned, and rendered all the aid in his power, but it was thought advisable to send the men immediately to Providence hospital, and Sergeants Marks and Teeple procured conveyances and had them taken to that institution, where Thompson and Peyton both died at about 1 o'clock last night. All the injured men lived in Alexandria, Va., and are men of families This morning Jones had one leg amoutated and the cuts on the other dressed, and although the surgeons were apprehensive that he would not be able to stand the operation, he revive and took some nourishment afterwards, and they have some hopes of his recovery. King was able to walk to the 6th street depot after the accident.

This afternon Coroner Patterson directed that jury of inquest be summoned. The railroad company took charge of the bodies, and will send Peyton's remains to Aldie and Thompson's to Alexandria, where their respective wives and families reside.

PUBLIC LIBRARY OF KENTUCKY GIPT EN TERPRISE. The attention of our readers is especially directed to the following "Card" of Tho. E. Bramlette, ex-governor of Kentucky It will be seen that he desires the holders of tickets in the Second Grand Gift Concert, seat tered as they are all over the land, should appoint representatives, or delegates to assemble in Louisville, Kentucky, on the 29th instant, whose duty, when assembled, will be to appoint a committee of their own number, to co-operate with the committee appointed by the trustees, and see that every ticket sold is represented by a numbered tag, and that every such tag goes into the wheel. Gov. Bramlette is determined that every ticket holder shall be thoroughly protected, and everything pertaining to the drawing shall be fairly, squarely and satisfactorily conducted. A CARD. The ticket-holders in the Second Grand Gift Concert, to be held on the 7th day of December next, in aid of the Public Library of Kentucky, are urgently requested to select some of their number to act as their representatives, who will meet in Louisville, Kentucky, on the 20th inst., in the library, and select a committee of five of their number to act in conjunction with the committee appointed by the Trustees, to see that all the tags representing the tickets sold are placed in the wheel before the drawing, and after the drawing to see the tags counted which remain in the wheel. The manager, the trustees, and the ticketholders are equally interested in having every-thing correctly and honestly done, and it is hoped that ticket-holders will not fail to attend promptly to this request.

APPEAL FOR RELIEF OF TEN THOUSAND WORKING WOMEN IN BOSTON WHO SUFFER BY THE FIRE .- The ladies of the Internal Revenue bureau have taken the initiative in a movement to raise money for the immediate needs of the ten thousand working women of Boston rendered destitute by the late fire, and an earnest appeal is made to members of the various departments and to the working women throughout the city to subscribe. The money raised will be entrusted to responsible persons n Boston for distribution, that a full account of its use may be returned. Contributions may be addressed to Mrs. Lily D. Wood, room 36, Internal Revenue bureau, Treasury department, or care EVENING STAR. PROPOSED RETROCESSION OF ALEXANDRIA. The Virginia (Alexandria) Sentinel says: It will, perhaps, estonish some of our citizens to learn that there is a decided movement on foot in our city and county, looking to retrocession to the District of Columbia. Many citizens of the county of Alexandria, whose interests are material and large, are of the opinion that it would conduce greatly to our improvement, and we believe that feeling is shared by some of our prominent and most distinguished business men. There is certainly much to be said in favor of this movement, and we do not doubt that an effort will be made during the next session of Congress to have it perfected.

ARREST OF A SUSPICIOUS TRIO.—Yesterday Officer Edward McHenry, stationed at the railroad depot, took into custody three genteel looking young men as they were about purchasing lickets. The arrest was made in obedience to instructions given him by Chief Clarvoe, of the instructions given him by Chief Clarvoe, of the detective corps. These three men had been watched by the whole detective force as suspicious persons, on account of an alleged attempt to put up a job for the robbery of Mr. John T. Given, wood and coal dealer, which was nipped in the bud by the precaution of Mr. Given. They give their names as Thomas Lane, Wm. Orton, and Frank Monroe.

PROBATE COURT, Judge Wylic.—Yesterday, letters of administration were granted to Nancy Brown and L. H. Hamilton on the estate of Wm. H. Brown, deceased; bond $2,500. Careline Lewis qualified as executrix of John A. Lewis. Wm. Bowie was appointed administra-tor of Matilda Bowie, deceased. Bridget Price, wife of ex-Policeman Thomas Price, qualified as administratrix; bond $6,000. The will of Geo. Schnell was filed, in which he leaves all his property to his wife, and appoints Joseph Platz

CATHOLIC SCHOOL FOR COLORED CHILDREN. The colored Catholics of this city, at the instance of Rev. Father Stonestreet, are using their utmost endeavors to erect an institution for the proper, moral and intellectual training of colored children throughout the District. To perfect their work it will be necessary to raise a considerable sum of money, and subscription lists are now in the hands of reliable persons, who propose to solicit aid from Catholic sources only. All who can afford to do so should contribute in behalf of so praiseworthy an enterprise. CANAL RECEIPTS .- The receipts of the Chesapeake and Ohio canal company for the week ending Saturday, November 9th, were: Cum-berland, $15 240 81; Georgetown, $1.734; Hancock. $206.20; Williamsport, $61.39. Motion for a New Trial Overruled.—
In the circuit court to-day, Judge Keith, the motion for new trial in the case of Wm. Jackson, convicted yesterday of murder in the first degree, was argued by Linden Kent for the prisoner. The judge overruled the motion, remarking that the only point he saw in the case was that made as to the difference in the degree of crime, which was a matter for the jury. The counsel excepted to the court's ruling, and the judge then said he would defer passing sentence till after to-morrow, that being the day on which the court of appeals meets.

VISITORS.—Several of the members of the Washington board of public works were in town Sunday, and visited and admired much the new market building.—Virginia Sentinel, last evening. MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL OVERRULED .-
